

World Peace Pledge

We, as people within a world of different governments and cultures, truly understand that there are and forever will be differences throughout our world; and these differences need not be challenged with aggression, but rather looked upon with a willingness to seek understanding, and if misunderstandings do exist, we shed solutions by being the very examples of encouraged change in a humanitarian and compassionate way.

Dedicated to the existence of world peace

I forward the above World Peace Pledge on to the world's people, and humbly ask in return that people throughout our world will forever bear this commitment, and forever cherish the fruits of world peace.
